Boston Sculptors Gallery presents Chris Frost: Constructed Nature, a solo exhibition of new sculptural work on view May 10 through June 11, 2023.

The works in Constructed Nature are an exploration of the natural landscape. A perception of landscape, not just as a natural place in time, but nature as it's affected by the passage of time and humankind.

Floor and wall sculptures combine aspects of traditional landscape painting, ceramic sculpture, and collage with contemporary color and form. These artworks, composed of a variety of materials including glazed ceramic, painted fabric, resin, wood, and concrete, can be seen as the sculptor's rendering of the natural world at the intersection of the traditional and the present.

Frost lives and works in Somerville, MA. Constructed Nature runs concurrently with Waldo Evan Jespersen's Reliquiae.
