(Boston, MA): Kalimah Muhammad's sophomore solo exhibition, Objects, explores the contemporary state of being an object. Defined as the thing being observed or acted upon, Objects, highlights an object's autonomy while seeking to occupy its own position in the world. Reflecting on art, language and societal structures, the exhibition examines themes of identity, influence, class, and value. The exhibition of text as well as wood and concrete sculptures continues Muhammad's investigation of how the function of abstract forms can aid in our understanding of them and influence our relationship to each other.

Muhammad, a New Jersey-native, joined the Boston Sculptors Gallery in 2012.

Objects will be shown concurrently with Three Sculptures and Two Installations, One with Sound by Andy Zimmermann.
